COURTIN' DAYS.

In Such Times the Lovers are Ubiquitous, Says a Sufferer. Jerome K. Jerome in Three Men in a Boat.

Have you ever been in a house where there are a couple courting? It is most trying. You think you will go and sit in the drawing-room, and you march off there. As you open the door you hear a noise as if somebody had suddenly recollected something, and when you get in, Emily is over by the window full of interest in the opposite side of the road, and your friend, John Edward, is at the other end of the room with his whole soul held in thrall by photo-graphs of other people's relatives.

"Oh!" you say, pausing at the door, "I didn't know anybody was here."
"Oh! didn't you?" says Entily, coldly, in a tone which implies that she does not believe you.

You hang about for a bit, then you say: "It's very dark. Why don't you light the gas?"
John Edward says he hadn't noticed

John Edward says he hadn't noticed it, and Emily says that papa does not like the gas lighted in the afternoon.

You tell them one or two items of news and give them your views and opinions on the Irish question, but this does not appear to interest them. All they remark is: "O!" "Is it?" "Did he?" "Yes," and "You don't say so?" and after ten minutes of such style of and after ten minutes of such style of and after ten minutes of such style of conversation you edge up to the door and slip out, and are surprised to find that the door immediately closes be-hind you and shuts itself without your having touched it.

Half an hour later you think you will rial an nour later you think you will try a pipe in the conservatory. The only chair in the place is occupied by Emily; and John Edward, if the lan-guage of clothes can be relied upon, has evidently been sitting upon the floor. They do not speak but they give you a look that says all that can be said in a civilized community, and you back out promptly and shut the door behind you.

You are afraid to poke your nose into any room in the house now, so after walking up and down the stairs for a while, you go and sit in your own bed room. This becomes uninteresting, room. This becomes uninteresting, however, after a time, and so you put ton your hat and stroll out into the garden. You walk down the path, and as you pass the summer house you glanco in, and there are those two young idiots, huddled up in one corner of it, and they see you and are evidently under the idea that, for some wicked purpose of your own, you are following them about.

"Why don't they have a special room for this sort of thing, and make people keep to it?" you mutter, and you rush back to the hall and get your umbrella and go out.

STEEL COTTON TIES.

An Industry That Democratic Tarlif Tinkers Would Like to Destroy. New York Press

American manufacturers of steel and iron cotton ties are not worried over the bill introduced in Congress to place these articles on the free list, as they have no fear that the bill will become a law. Should such an unexpected event happen, however, it would destroy an industry which employs thousands of men and circulates millions of money, and would result in benefiting not a single American citizen, for the ties are sold cheaper here now than they are sold abroad, and their price has even been reduced since the McKinley Tariff bill went into effect. "Steel cotton ties," said Mr. A. R.

Whitney, one of the largest dealers in them in America, "came into this country first under patents owned by McComb. They then sold as high as McComb. They then sold as high as 7 cents per pound. Prior to the McKinley bill we sold the ties for 22-10 cents per pound. The duty was then 35 per cent ad valorem, equal to about $11 per ton. The McKinley law advanced the duty to $33 per ton, and since its passage we have reduced the price to 2 cents per pound.

"This is lower than the Imported ties were ever sold in this country, and lower than they are laid down in any of the markets where they are used. If the duty was added to the price of the of the marketa where they are used. If the duty was added to the price of the ties they would now sell at 3½ cents per pound. If the duty should be taken off we would simply be forced to shut down our works and stop manufactur-ing the ties."

THE TRUE INWARDNESS

Of the Democratic Kick Against Hill. Cleveland's Mistaite. New York Press.

The Press was the first newspaper to call attention to the impudent attempt of the Cleveland managers to humbug the public with the protense that the present revolt against Hill was inspired by great "moral influences." It thoroughly exposed the ridiculous sham of the Cleveland contention that the action the Cleveland contention that the action of the Democratic malcontents was in any sense a real protest against party bossism and corruption; and it has had the satisfaction of seeing the exposure repeated in the columns of the Republican press of the state.

No testimony has been uttered, however which contents to the Cleveland.

No testimony has been uttered, however, which condemns the Cleveland fraud more explicitly and strongly than the following words from Harper's Weekly, which has long been one of the ablest and most courageous of Mr. Cleveland's advocates:

"With incredible blindness, from the party point of view, Mr. Cleveland and his friends united at the last election with Tammany Hall and Governor Hill to secure a result which enormously strengthened the Hill-Tammany power, and by all received party rules and cusstrengthened the Hill-Tammany power, and by all received party rules and customs left Mr. Hill and Tammany Hall the representatives of the regular Democratic party in New York. It is a striking fact, however, that the first consequence of Democratic success—the monstrous outrage of Hill upon free government in the theft of the senate of the state—did not apparently distress the Cloveland wing of the Democracy. It was a tremendous blow at fundamental rights, a crime against the people, but the leaders of the present revolt. It is remarkable that while this great offense against the public passed uncondemned, the call of a state convention in February to elect delegates to a national convention in June is resented as so fingrant a wrong that revolt is justifi-

Nobody can misunderstand this statement from the leading Mugwump weekly newspaper of the United States. It is a robuke, administered with stinging emphasis, to the shallow hypocrisy with which Mr. Cleveland and his friends have weight tried to feet the statement. which Mr. Cleveland and his friends have vainly tried to fool the American people. The pretense that there is a "moral element" in the Cleveland kick might as well be abandoned. The country understands that this movement originated simply in the disappointed selfishness of a free trade Democratic politician who was entirely willing to see his rival steal New York state so long as he thought he was to be permitted to grab the Presidential nomination.

It is not Hill's dishonesty but Hill's superior smartness that has aroused the Cleveland Democrats' action. The per-formance of these individuals misleads nobody. It only makes their cause and their candidate contemptible.

AMERICAN WOOL

Suffers by an Enormous Increase in Pro-duction the World Over-Free Traders Dodge This Important Fact.

. In trying to account for the fall in wool prices, it should not be torgotten that they have fallen the world over. The chief cause has been an abnormal increase in production. A glance at the amounts of wool sent into the markets of the world from the principal wool exporting sources will make this point clear. Exports in 1891 compare with those of 1890 as follows:

Australia Bales.

Australia 1,902,874

Now Zealand 312,862
Cape of Good Hope 521,704

River Plate. 380,000

Our Tariff certainly had nothing to do with this increase in wool production in other countries. Yet the increase is in other countries. Yet the increase is the cause of the low prices for wool theworld over. The year 1891 closed with wool lower in London by from 5 to 14 per cent, than it was a year previous. The average price of Australian wool had fallen to £13½ a bale, against £14¾ in 1890. Without Protection American wool grovers would have been swamped under an avalanche of cheap foreign wool. Let the farmer keep foreign wool. Let the farmer keep these facts in mind when the Free-Trade demagogue tries to make him believe that the McKinley bill is responsible for the recent decline in prices of some grades of American wool.

The Word "Average." Golden Days.

After a fair translation of its old French body, "aver," into English, only "horse" is found, and the word becomes "horsage." The change tends to confu-sion but tope the less "horsage." "average" are identical, since in the old time French an "aver" was a horse. It was also a horse in the Scotch dictionaries, and in one of Burns' poems, "A Dream," he alludes to the horse as a "noble aiver."

In olden times in Europe a tenant was bound to do certain work for the lord of the manor—largely in carting grain and turf-housework, and in the yearly setthemen to faccounts the just proportion of the large and small work performed was estimated according to the work done by "avers" (horses); hence our common work "averago."

OPENING FOR STATESMANSHIP. When the Free Traders Knock Off the Wool Tariff, Where and How will They Make up for the Lost Revenue?

New York Tribune. Here is a simple question for tariff reformers. They propose to take off all the duties on wool and all the compensatory duties on woollen goods, and insist that the home manufacture would be better off and better able to sustain be better off and better able to sustain itself against foreign competition than it is now. It must be assumed that some of them honestly believe this. Very well, gentlemen; what are you go-ing to do for the necessary revenue? Granulated sugar at 4 cents per pound, against 6.75 cents eighteen months ago, means synching for the working you means something for the working peo-ple. Perhaps no article could be named which is more universally connamed which is more universally consumed by the entire American people; certainly not wheat bread, for in large sections corn is almost exclusively used instead. The people consume more than 50 pounds of sugar for every inhabitant. They have gained by a single change of duty from $1 to $1.37 for every person; from $5 to $1.87 for every family. Do the tariff reformers propose to put this burden back? They are well aware that they have not the courage to suggest such a thing. What are they to do, then, for the needed revenue?

rovenue? The treasury has no larger revenue The treasury has no larger revenue now than it requires. In fact, most of the reformers insist that it has too little, that its balances are improperly depleted, and that bankruptcy is ahead unless this Congress carefully reduces the Congress carefully reduces the Congress carefully request show expenditures. The official reports show but a narrow and seanty balance for the future, even if the sinking fund be disregarded and if no appropriation should be made in excess of the esti-should be made in excess of the estimates, which do not include many things for which Congress is sure to spend money.

The duties on wool during the last fiscal year amounted to $0.552,263, and with the duties on waste and rags, which it is also proposed to make free, to $0,758.795. The duties on the remaining woollen goods amounted to $34,050,926, and as the value of these was but $13,028,832, and the duties proposed by tariff reformers would not exceed 40 per cent ad valorem, the amount collected would be not more than $17,200,000. It would be not more than $17,200,000. is asserted by the references that the manufacturer would be able to sustain himself as well as he does now; that is, the imports of goods would be no greater. Hence no increase in the revenue from wool and woolens beyond the above named $11,490,000 should be expected, which would be $24,200,771 less than the revenue from the same articles last year. articles last year.

Some other tax must be imposed if this amount of duty is to be taken off,

It will not do to put back the duties on sugar and molasses. What other tax, yielding $24,200,000, an amount which yielding $23,200,000, an amount which the treasury must have, are the tariff reformers prepared to impose?

Of course they do not know, nor does anybody else. But it is a fact which dis-any body ease. But it is a fact which dis-closes the eminently discreditable spirit in which they approach great responsi-bilities, that they have no thought what-ever of the need of raising the revenue now yielded by the revenues on wool and woolens which they frantically clauser to take off. In their absurb notion that to take off. In their absurb notion that the first duty of man is to attack a tariff they make haste to cut off a revenue which is necessary for the support of the government, with not the faintest idea what they can do to get an equal revenue with less injury to the people. If they ever become same enough to think about the matter dispassionately they will find that duties which do actually add nothing to the cost of woolen goods, and yet return $24,200,000 yearly to the treasury, form a highly desirable source treasury, form a highly desirable source of revenue, irrespective of their value as a defense for a great American in-dustry on which more than a million people depend for support.
